Evolution creates greater risks

As global supply chains continue to evolve, brands experience increased security risks and poor chain of custody (COC) practices.

To navigate these issues, we have a series of audits to meet various industry needs.

Security & due diligence assessments

Industry initiatives

- Responsible Jewellery Council Chain of Custody (RJC COC)
- Responsible Minerals Initiative (RMI)
- Supplier Compliance Audit Network (SCAN)

SGS checklists

- Facility Security Assessment (FSA)

Client-specific programs

- Client's proprietary compliance programs

The benefits

Remain compliant with legal requirements

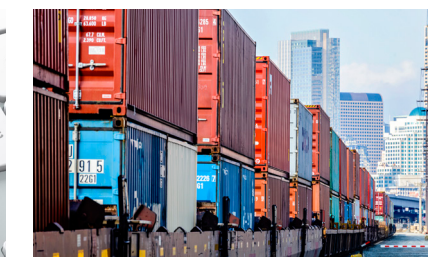

Collaboration towards a common goal

Avoid audit redundancies and a standardized industry approach

Improved security practices and reduced vulnerabilities

Protect cargo integrity

Expedited turnaround times at customs

Security audits

All Customs Trade Partnership Against Terrorism (CTPAT) partners must provide specific security measures and action plans to align security throughout their supply chain. This ensures that they will be considered low-risk and granted benefits, including shorter waiting times at the US border.

We have developed a scored audit checklist to assist companies in improving their security practices.

Due diligence

From raw materials to retail shelves, brands and retailers in many industries must demonstrate their compliance with Conflict Minerals requirements.

For years, we have been verifying COC systems for a variety of industries, including paper/wood products, sustainable fisheries and conflict minerals.
